MACDONALD OUTPLAYED BY JUNIORS

First Win in Second Game of Season

SCORE 17—0

Extended End Runs Gain Many Yards for McGill Team

The junior team looked more like last year's champions when they ran away with the MacDonald College aggregation to the tune of 17—0 on the greasy field of the Old Campus Saturday morning. This was the second game of the year for the McGill squad but their first win. Loyola registered against the juniors last Wednesday, but in their play of yesterday is any criterion, the Notre Dame de Grace squad will not be so fortunate when they clash again next Wednesday at the Stadium.

The Aggies, who were also defeated by Loyola were, if anything, the heavier team but their team was below par and none of their plays went off with that well-oiled precision which characterized the plays of the McGill men. Lack of a strong scrub team may be the reason for MacDonald's failure for they did not seem to pull together. Their outside wings were unable to stop the end runs of the home team and if the ground had been hard the score would very likely have been far larger. As many runs were stopped by the backs slipping as were broken up by MacDonald tackling.

Throughout the last half, end runs netted the juniors many yards. Time and again the whole back division would go down in a line for big gains. On a hard field these men will need more than careful watching.

For McGill Bob Davies was perhaps the outstanding player on the treacherous field, while Winslow, at quarter, mixed his plays well and Glasco bucked to advantage. J. B. Smith, of MacDonald College, was the hardest worker for the visitors.

In the absence of "Euster" Reid, Sydney Pierce handled the game to the satisfaction of all. No penalties were awarded and no player injured sufficiently to leave the field.

The game by periods:— McGill kicked off. Bourne made two long runs and Davies went over the chalk for the first touch, which was not converted. McDonald fumbled the greasy ball and McGill bucked without success. An end run netted the juniors 25 yards. An exchange of kicks followed without advantage.

Score: McGill 5; MacDonald, 0.

Second quarter:—

McGill got within striking distance and Gorrie kicked for a point. A few minutes later Gorrie attempted a drop which hit the bar. McGill recovered ball when MacDonald kicked and bucked to within a few yards of the line, where Winslow went over on a fake buck for the second touch, which was not converted.

Score: McGill, 11; MacDonald, 0.

Third quarter:—

McGill kicked and MacDonald failed to make any impression on McGill line. Here MacDonald replaced Grisdale and Walford with Mitchell and McGaule. McGill worked steadily down the field, Gorrie kicked and MacDonald fumbled. McGill had ball on 5-yard line but could not get over the white line. MacDonald.

JOLLY TIME SPENT AT UNION DANSANT

Thirty-five Couples Dance After Game

Whatever was lacking in numbers at the Union Tea Dance on Saturday afternoon was made up for by the enjoyable time which was spent by the thirty-five couples who were present.

The McGill Dance Orchestra was equal to the occasion and soon cheered up the spirits of those coming from the Stadium, while the refreshments left nothing to be desired.

It is thought that owing to the lateness of the hour and the fact that everyone was rather "blue" after the game, the attendance was far below what was expected.

In between dances the game was played over again and praise and criticism of both teams was heard on every hand and by the time the strains of last waltz had died away the reasons for McGill's defeat had been fully explained and justified by each of the thirty-five loyal students to each of their thirty-five friends.

"ROMANS & JEWS" SPEECH BY DR. LAING

Dean Laing Addresses the Maccabees

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Meeting Was Held in the Windsor Hotel

Doctor Gordon Laing, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, was the speaker at the first meeting of the Maccabean Circle, held yesterday afternoon in the Ladies' Ordinary of the Windsor Hotel. It had been originally planned to hold the meeting in the Oak Room, but so large was the attendance that it was necessary to hold it in more spacious quarters.

In the absence of the President, Otto Klineberg, who is still confined to the hospital, as a result of the unfortunate accident that befell him a few days ago, S. Mirsky, the Vice-President, occupied the chair.

In his introductory remarks, the acting chairman, first informed the audience that Mr. Klineberg was now out of danger. This statement was greeted with applause inasmuch as his condition was first thought to be serious.

After extending a hearty welcome to both old and new members, the chairman proceeded to outline the aims and ideals of the Society, sketching briefly its history from inception to the present day. He outlined some of the events planned for the ensuing year, among which are debates with kindred societies in Toronto and Harvard Universities.

Doctor Laing was then introduced. Taking as his subject "The Jews and the Romans," he gave a most interesting and instructive address, drawing a parallel between Hebrew and Roman culture from the standpoint both of literature and of religion.

He first discussed the two races from the point of view of literature. In this connection, the Hebrews were far superior, the lyric verse of the Old Testament surpassing anything produced by the Romans. The Proverbs, declared the speaker, expressing, as they do, the compact wisdom of ages as close a conception of the perfect life as one could conceive of, or hope to find in any literature.

Perhaps most important of all is the fact that the Old Testament forms an impeccable basis of text criticism. Very few other bodies of literature can be so used, for the reason that frequent copying and translating, have rendered obscure the original lines and meanings.

Discussing the subject from the religious viewpoint, the speaker traced the successive eras through which the religions of the two peoples had passed. In the case of the Romans, it was a gradual ascension from the worship of pastoral duties, to innumerable gods governing every conceivable action. These gods they believed to be their own, and consequently when the Romans extended their Empire, and expanded their

Described Student Life in Central Europe

MANY PRESENT

Importance of Acquiring an International View-point

At a supper held on Friday evening at Strathcona Hall, Miss Margaret Wrong, Travelling Secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation, who was the guest of honor, delivered an address in which she gave an account of some of the conditions under which the university students of Central Europe were carrying on their work, and described the after-war conditions that prevail in these countries, as they affect the living conditions of the average student.

A large number of the members of the McGill S.C.A., as well as some others interested in the subject matter of Miss Wrong's address, assembled at the Hall and partook of a very cheery meal. Among those present was Professor Basil Williams, head of the Department of History.

In opening her address, Miss Wrong dwelt at some length on the social and political conditions that now obtain in the newly created states of Central Europe, from which she has but recently returned. The war has been responsible for complete political changes, both in the form and nature of governments and in the boundaries separating state from state. The great empires of Russia, Austria-Hungary, and Germany have been overthrown and replaced by a newer, and in some respects, a less stable form of government. The economic consequences of the peace have left the Central European countries on the verge of financial disaster. There is in all these states a great deal of bitterness, aggravated by fundamental differences of language and mode of living, which is felt between the victors and the vanquished.

Nevertheless, in spite of all these many great obstacles and very real difficulties the students at the universities of these countries are striving and struggling hard to attain to something like a cordial spirit of fellowship with students of foreign and adjacent lands. International student conferences have been held, and these have met with a slowly but surely growing measure of success that augurs well for future.

These students, continued the speaker, have realized that they owe a debt of service, not each to his own little nationality, but to the race as a whole. And this debt, they believe, can best be paid by promoting harmonious international relationship and a feeling of universal brotherhood that will make the horror of another modern scientific war an impossibility.

The actual conditions under which most of these students are living are conditions of extreme hardship. The student who possesses a complete suit of clothes and a good pair of boots is fortunate, indeed, while a warm blanket is a rare and valuable possession.

Even men working under disadvantages such as these, the students of Central Europe, stated Miss Wrong, showed an interest and a spirit of eager intellectual enquiry that was shown to the same extent in America. It is the duty of

SECOND RE-UNION OF SCIENCE '16

Mr. Pringle Seath Acted as Chairman

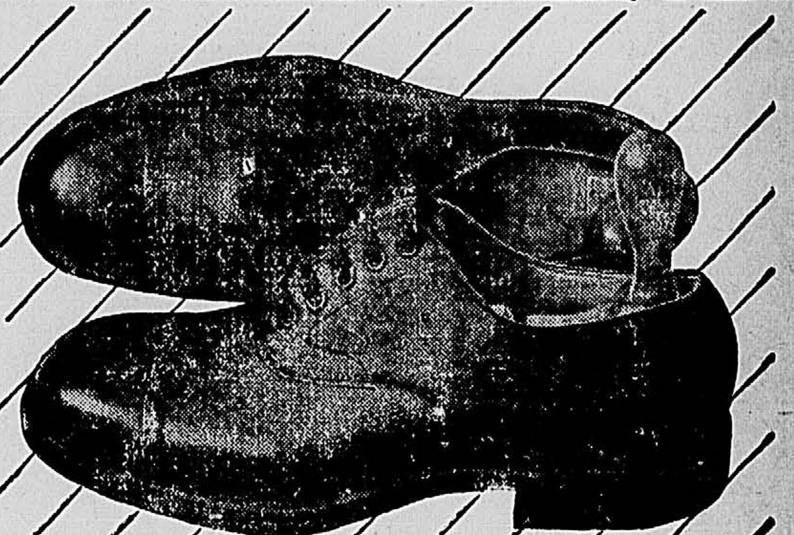

On Saturday night Science 1916 held its second annual re-union class dinner in the private dining room at Windsor Station. Saturday night's dinner, the first since the Centennial Reunion of last year, proved such an unqualified success that hope for the future reunions runs high.

The dinner commenced with the singing of "Hail Alma Mater," the rendering of the McGill yell and of the class yell.

Mr. Pringle Seath, President of the Class, acted as chairman. During his remarks of welcome, he asked each member to rise in turn and give his name, address, present business connection, and state whether married or single, and this breaking what little ice required breaking, the dinner breezed merrily along.

Mr. Olsen, one of the guests of the evening, sang some appropriate songs, which were well received.

MONTREAL, MONDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1922.

'VARSITY'S TRIUMPH.

On the showing made by 'Varsity on Saturday, Canadian Intercollegiate Rugby Football Championship should find its resting place in Toronto for another year. 'Varsity played a clean game and clearly deserved to win, if not by the huge margin which was the result of Saturday's game, and part of which might be attributed to lack of confidence and decision in the playing of McGill when the score was so unequally divided, certainly by a very considerable tally. The McGill men were clearly in no condition to maintain the pace set, or the punishment handed out, by their opponents; after the first half they were plainly a beaten team, and what had, till then, been an interesting encounter between teams representing contrasting systems of the Canadian game, became an unequal contest with the issue no longer in the balance; the visitors, with the outcome assured, could afford to indulge in some very spectacular, and successful plays which seemed to emphasize the weaknesses of those opposing them.

It is a long time since McGill has suffered such ignominious defeat. The Red and White squad, composed mostly of men new to the game, was no match for the more experienced, smoother working 'Varsity aggregation. The triumph of 'Varsity can be largely accounted for, too, by the superb condition of the players on their team. Next session, with fewer of the Senior Team graduating, McGill may not experience such difficulty in building up a team of intercollegiate calibre, but much improvement will be necessary before she can hope to reach the standard set by the winner's of Saturday's game.

A CHALLENGE.

The challenge which Miss Margaret Wrong, Secretary of the World's Student Federation has flung to us at McGill in the course of an address delivered on Saturday night at Strathcona Hall deserves wider recognition and more urgent consideration than it may possibly receive if its import and content is realized only by those who were privileged to be present when that address was delivered.

We are living to-day in an epoch of change and upheaval. The old order is giving place to a newer one, which it rests with us to make a better one. In Europe, however, this change has been no peaceful revolution, but the stormy out come of four years of blood and war. Empires have been overturned, and new states created. Racial bounds have been broken, so that in Central Europe the student is finding himself forced to mix with men of other and often heretofore hostile races who speak a different tongue and who have been brought up with totally different ideals and ideas. Moreover poverty and starvation are kept from the door only by the exertion of almost super-human effort and self-sacrifice, while the standard of comfort is practically at zero.

It is under conditions such as these that the Students of Central Europe—Austria, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, eastern Germany and Roumania—are trying to carry on their work of getting knowledge, and fostering a universal brotherhood among students that will make international competition and war a hateful thing no longer tolerated in a better regulated world.

"Here in Canada," said Miss Wrong, "I do not find the same eager interest in questions of international unity that makes itself apparent in the European universities you too have a duty towards the world of to-day, and it is to you also that the world is looking for the leadership that will guide a new society into the ways of peace and universal brotherhood."

This is the challenge that has been brought to us from the darkened colleges of the old world. We too are students seeking after truth. We too are vitally concerned in the establishment of world brotherhood, in the prevention of the disaster of modern scientific war, and in the formation of a finer, cleaner social system.

"What would you advise," Miss Wrong was asked, "if you were approached by a group of students desirous of knowing in what way they could aid their fellow undergraduates of Central Europe in the task of promoting international fellowship and universal peace?"

Although material aid is almost a necessity this was not the point stressed by Miss Wrong in her reply. Study diligently. Make yourself acquainted with knowledge and truth. Read what is written on these questions of international welfare in the newspapers and periodicals, and take every opportunity afforded by the college curriculum to learn something of history, economics and literature; for it is with the youthful students of the world that the future of the new ideals of brotherhood and universal peace are resting.

commerce, gods of other nations were invariably imported, more particularly to cater to the common people, for the gods up to that time were for the most part "state gods." Notable amongst the imported gods were Oriental deities, which took a great hold on the masses of the people, and it was against these, rather than the "state gods" that Christianity had to struggle so hard.

The Hebrews, like the Romans, were originally a pastoral people, associating the presence of a divinity with stones, trees, etc. Upon entering Canaan, they became idolaters, worshipping the gods of the Canaanites. In the course of generations the prophets raised the religion conceptions of Israel, and eventually Jehovah came to be regarded as the universal God.

Touching the ethical side of the subject, Doctor Laing declared that he shared the belief held by many, that ethical ideas were not sufficiently advanced in Mosaic times to enable one to associate the giving of the Ten Commandments with that period. This probably happened at a much later date. In the case of the Romans, it was the introduction of Oriental deities that first brought in the ethical idea.

Dr. Laing concluded by paying a tribute to the constancy with which the Hebrew race has adhered to its principles and ideals. Although dispersed and scattered, their culture and religion has remained intact. With them, dispersion has not meant dissolution.

The vote of thanks was suitably moved by H. Batshaw, seconded by N. Vineberg.

Miss Evelyn Shapiro rendered a piano solo which was encored by an appreciative audience.

The chairman then announced that the next meeting would be held in two weeks time in the Oak Room. The meeting was then adjourned.

AUNTIE KURRIE'S CORNER

SMILE AWHILE.

The happiest person that you meet on your long journey through life is the cheery soul who greets the knocks and trials of the world with an infectious smile. There is no disaster black enough to darken the cheerfulness of the Smiler. His lips may be cracked, but even under the shadow of the Black Reaper, reeling under the blow of a Mother-in-Law's demise, he will continue to smile. In fact he may even grin.

A happy smile, girls, or a good broad grin—I am speaking more particularly to my feminine readers now—these are the things to put the Sunshine in the Saddest Heart. Get up early in the morning after a strenuous night of Jazz ready to greet that nine o'clock lecture with the real Spirit of Sunshine. If your class-mates are tired or gloomy, as even Women Undergraduates unfortunately sometimes are, scatter Seeds of Kindness in your heart and let them blossom into Flowery Smiles. Brighten the Corner where you are, and Old Man Gloom will retreat before the fairy radiance of the Lady Happiness.

Among the very few who have acquired perfectly the smiling habit is a dear friend of mine, whom I wish it was the privilege of all my readers who so often write to me to know. Her story may prove instructive. After a hard night at the Jardin or the Palais she very often found her nine o'clock lectures rather trying. She usually had a headache, and would frown and doze during the whole of the hour. Under these circumstances she felt that she was not doing her utmost to influence her class-mates and associates for the better. She was in the Grip of the Blues (of the Hot Lips variety) and she came, very wisely I think, to me for advice.

"Auntie Kurrie," she implored, "tell me what there is to be done. You have helped so many young people who have brought their troubles to you. I have read your column every night, and I see how your invaluable advice is settling so many questions of life and death importance, and setting so many youthful feet on the path that will lead them along the cheery way to happiness. Perhaps your advice will be of the same value to me."

I could not help being struck by her admirable perspicacity and accurate judgment, and I frankly and unhesitatingly gave her the benefit of my experience and advice. It has transformed her into a New Woman—"a gracious queen of smiling stately ways," as the great poet Tennyson has it. She now smiles on all occasions, even of the most solemn nature.

Perhaps some others of my readers have been troubled by the same doubts and perplexities. There may be some who have felt that a nine o'clock lecture on the morning after the night before is not conducive to that spirit of carefree optimism that is the heritage of every normal healthy young person. It is for the sake of these readers that I venture to print the following advice.

As you enter the lecture room at nine o'clock or a few minutes later make up your mind that your name is Pollyanna, and challenge your neighbour to a "Glad Game". The object of this is to see who can find the greatest number of things to be glad about. Your opponent's pitiful failure to make and score whatever is certain to make you smile. As you yourself will no doubt find it almost impossible to think of anything to be glad about, I will enumerate one or two. Be glad it's not an eight-thirty lecture. Be glad that the ping-pong championship still rests with the Red-and-White. Be glad that with Auntie Kurrie's help you ought to beat your rival at this "Glad Game", and by making the odds sufficiently high you can clean up a neat little pile. Be glad that the sun still shines, and that the birds sing. Be glad you're alive. Life may be pretty tough, but anyway it's damned amusing. So cheer up. Don't grouch, but grow a grin. AND SMILE AWHILE.

AUNTIE KURRIE.

AUNTIE KURRIE'S LETTER BOX

NOTE.

All correspondence in this department should be addressed to Auntie Kurrie, McGill Daily, and will be published every Monday morning.

All communications must have name, address, place and date of birth and be accompanied by marriage license of parents and ten cents in Russian roubles.

Please write on all three sides of the paper.

All legal questions are to be addressed to the Registrar, Faculty of Law; while questions on health and hygiene are to be sent to the Department of Physical Education, Molson Hall.

HORRIBLE HARRIET.

Thank you for your kind letter. I am so glad that I have been able to cure your heart disease. As you say, if gazing upon the youthful form of any lecturer gives you palpitation of the heart it would be advisable to absent yourself from his classes for a time. It would however be prudent to ask one of your friends to answer for you, as I'm sure you'll agree that the one-eighth rule must be obeyed. I have shown your letter to our handwriting expert and he thinks with me that you are a freshette. There is something unsophisticated in the formation of your H's, E's, and double L's.

A VOICE FROM TETRAULTVILLE.

I am just come this year the first time to the McGill colleges, as I have been before my education at L'Ecole Normale de Tetrautville where one thought me the smart scholar of the school. But no matter; it is not for me I speak, but of a girl—une jolie petite Canadienne—who live on the Royal Victorian Colleges. She is—What you say?—a co-ed. She is come to me every day since it was yesterday and have ask me to buy a ticket for the sports in which she is run next Saturday at the Stadium. I have now buy three tickets from her. What shall I do if she ask me again, for when she smile at me like she do I can not say no.

Ans: Marry her. You'll find it cheaper as she won't smile at you then.

pastime calculated to keep one amused in church. It is, however, essentially an outdoor game, and is played to the greatest advantage on a crowded street. The method of scoring is the same as in that other noble old game—tennis. Upon noticing a bearded gentleman the observant player immediately calls "Beaver" loudly enough to be overheard by the victim. This counts 15. The detection of anyone with a walrus moustache also counts 15, while a combination of the two types of sartorial ornament is awarded with 30 points. A "Kink Beaver" is a red-bearded person riding on a green bicycle and counts game and set. For further particulars see the next edition of Hoyle.

SIXTEEN AND SIMPLE.

I am now turned sixteen years old and have been keeping company with a boy whom I met at the Venetian Gardens for nearly three years. I think I love him very much, and he wants to marry me. Father says he thinks he ought, but Mother says I'm too young. What shall I do? Do you think I would look well in tulle or would you recommend crepe de chien?

—Sweet Sixteen.

Ans: (1) I think you would be foolish to do anything against the wishes of your parents. (2) If you are musically inclined I should advise organdie.

GLEE CLUB BEGINS ITS SECOND YEAR

The Glee Club has got away to a flying start for its second year since the war, and practices are being held every Monday and Tuesday nights in Strathcona Hall from seven to eight o'clock. Men who attend these practices will need to bring a copy of the McGill Song Book, and former members of the Club should bring copies of all last year's music along with them.

The Club is still in need of new material and it offers rather a unique opportunity to freshmen, not only of learning the rudiments of singing but also

RED AND WHITE RUGBY TEAM SUCCUMB TO V. OF T. ATTACK

Inexperienced McGill Team no Match for Powerful Varsity Twelve—Blue and White has Strongest Team in History—Was Clean Hard Fought Battle Throughout—Loss of Flanagan and Philpotts Big Handicap to McGill.

The McGill football team weakened by the loss of Flanagan and Philpotts, the backbone of the Red and White, attack, proved no match for the powerful University of Toronto twelve on Saturday and the visitors overwhelmed their hosts by the score of 51 to 5. It was a young and inexperienced squad that opposed the Blue and White at Molson Stadium, only two of the number having played in a McGill-Varsity contest before, Ambridge at middle wing and Carroll at half-back being the lone veterans.

Flanagan and Philpotts, McGill's injured gridiron warriors, are unquestionably the team's surest ground gainers, and on the defense have few superiors. With this duo on the field the result would undoubtedly have been somewhat different. But the Red and White has no alibi to offer. To be defeated by a team of the calibre of this year's Varsity outfit is certainly no disgrace. The team is as well rounded a combination as has been seen at the McGill Stadium for a number of years.

They have shown remarkable improvement in every department since the first game of the season two weeks ago, and Coach Maynard should be congratulated on his results. Every man on the squad appeared to be well coached and their assortment of plays completely bewildered the Red and White defense. It is a smooth working machine without a single flaw and possesses every kind of threat. A peerless half-line, a clever quarterback, a powerful line and a pair of flashy outside wings. Snyder, Duncan and Somerville have developed a perfect team play. All three are dangerous in an open field, speedy end runners and terrific line-plungers. Snyder and Somerville can hold their own with the best in a punting game, and there is no man more dangerous within an enemy's 5-yard line than Somerville, who duplicated last year's stunt of kicking three field goals against McGill.

Harry Hobbs has no superiors as a field general. He uses rare judgment and is always a dangerous man on the attack. While his ability to run back punts he clearly demonstrated on Saturday. In Robert and Prendergast they have a pair of wings that are always down under kicks and are deadly tacklers—while the line proved to be a stonewall on Saturday.

Perhaps the most obvious improvement was on the line. In Toronto the McGill forwards clearly outplayed their opponents' wings and though in that game Varsity made 10 first downs to 7 for McGill, most of the Blue and White gains were made on the ends, while McGill gained consistently through the line. On Saturday the McGill line was completely outclassed. Varsity made yards 17 times, while the best the home team could do was 3. Two of these first downs were made on outside kicks and the other one was counted when Cope broke through for a 15-yard gain in the last quarter. The Varsity line charged beautifully and their wings were rarely put out of the play.

On the McGill line Ambridge played a good game, and Woodruff, who played with the captain on the left side of the line, put up a fairly good defence, but on the right side of the line it was the same old story. Gamble and Walsh were no match for Westman and Reilly, and it was through that side of the line that Toronto made most of their gains.

The McGill team should be given great credit for their gallant fight in the face of so many disheartening breaks in the final period, with the score 50 points against them, and not even a miracle making a victory possible, they put up a stubborn battle and made three first downs in quick succession. The McGill supporters were pleased with the fighting spirit displayed by their warriors and rallied round the flag to the end.

Cope put up a beautiful game for McGill. He was in on almost every play and made more tackles than anyone on the field. He was responsible for the only McGill first down made through the line when he plunged through centre for 15 yards in the last period. Manson did some good line-plunging. With a line that was opening holes he would have gotten away on many gains. Little played well on the defense until he was injured in the second half. And Carroll more than held his own against the Varsity punters.

Charlie Robertson, at outside wing, showed up well. He came across with some sensational tackles and broke up a number of threatening runs.

But the tackling of the team as a whole was weak and that accounted for numerous long runs by the Varsity backs. Again the wings were slow down the field under punts. The Varsity half-backs running back the 28 McGill punts for a net distance of 234 yards, while McGill could do only 38 in this department.

A detailed account of the play follows:

FIRST QUARTER.

Ambridge won the toss and chose to defend the west end of the field with a slight wind blowing at his back. Taylor kicked off for Varsity. Carroll received the boot on his own 12-yard line and got away to a 26-yard gain on a neat bit of open field running. Manson made

4 yards through the right side of the line and Carroll punted to Hobbs on the Varsity 42-yard line. Duncan went through the right side for a 4-yard gain and Snyder added six yards and a first down between Gamble and Walsh. On the next play the Varsity backs combined on a run around right end, Duncan carrying the ball to the McGill 21-yard line, a distance of 37 yards, but when he made a forward pass to Snyder McGill was given possession of the ball. An attempt to circle left end failed and Carroll punted to Somerville, who ran it back 23 yards to midfield. Duncan jumped over centre for two yards. He fumbled on the next play but recovered and on the last down Somerville booted to Little, who was downed 15 yards out. Manson found left middle for two yards, and Gamble made three at centre. Carroll got off a 55-yard punt to Somerville, whose return was caught by Little on his own 35-yard line. McGill gained 15 yards on the exchange. Carroll punted on the first down, the ball sailing out of bounds on the Varsity 46 yard line, but McGill was given the ball on a Varsity misplay. Carroll's attempt at an onside kick was blocked and Varsity obtained on their own 46-yard line. On the next play the visitors lost the ball when Snyder fumbled, McGill ball on their own 50-yard line. Manson plunged twice at centre and the sum total of his efforts was 4 yards. The wings were not opening any holes in the Varsity line. Carroll punted to the Varsity 15-yard line and Hobbs ran it back 40 yards. Duncan plunged at McGill right for two yards, an attempt at centre failed and Somerville punted to Carroll, who made a pretty running catch on his 45-yard line. Crain fumbled a poor pass but recovered. On the next play Carroll dropped back to kick, the pass from centre soared high over his head, Carroll made a great effort to get the oval but four Varsity men had broken through and Rolph, the visitors' outside wing, secured the ball and ran it 35 yards down the field for a touchdown. Duncan scored the extra point.

Toronto, 6; McGill, 0.

Ambridge kicked off to Duncan, who was spilled by Little at midfield, after an advantage of 35 yards. Snyder gained 8 yards through Ambridge, a combined run around Varsity left end netted 7 yards and first down. Snyder was thrown by Cope and Manson after a yard gain around right end and McGill was given the ball on his forward pass to Somerville on the McGill 41-yard line. Manson gained 4 yards at centre and Crain lost that much when he failed to pass on an attempt to skirt right end. Carroll punted to Hobbs, who ran back 15 yards to his own 45-yard line. Varsity was penalized 15 yards for offside. A trick play failed when Ambridge broke through and Somerville punted to Carroll, who was nailed on his 50-yard line. Cope made no gain, and Manson ploughed through centre for 5 yards; on the third down Carroll booted to the Varsity 20-yard line, where Hobbs fumbled but recovered. Ambridge was hurt but resumed play. McGill brought Duncan down after a 3 yard gain at left end. Snyder tried to skirt the other wing but fumbled and Little recovered for McGill 23 yards from the Varsity goal line. Crain failed to go through right middle and Carroll dropped back to the 30-yard line for a drop kick. The boot went low and was picked up by Somerville over the goal line. "Sandy" dropped the ball when tackled by two McGill men and Little pounced on it for a touchdown. Carroll's attempt to convert from a difficult angle failed.

Toronto, 6; McGill, 5.

Taylor's kick-off sailed to the McGill 28-yard line and Crain ran it back five yards. A plunge by Manson at right middle yielded only two yards and Carroll kicked to the Varsity 35-yard line. Hobbs passed to Somerville, who gained 7 yards as the period ended with Varsity in possession on their own 42-yard line.

Toronto, 6; McGill, 5.

SECOND QUARTER.

On the first down Somerville booted to Little, who was downed on his 28-yard line. Manson found no hole in the left side of the line and Crain lost 2 yards on an attempt to round right end. Eddie here threw up another good opportunity to pass. Carroll punted out of bounds on the Varsity 40-yard line, and on the first down Somerville returned the kick, which was caught on the McGill 20-yard line by Carroll, "Dink" advancing 4 yards before being tackled. Somerville's boot travelled 57 yards. One yard was all Woodruff could make on a plunge at centre, and Cope added 6 yards through right middle on a pretty criss-cross play. Carroll punted to Hobbs on his 15-yard line and the Varsity captain returned with a short punt to the McGill 40-yard line, where Varsity secured on a McGill fumble. Crain spilled Somerville after a 3-yard gain at left end and on the next play Snyder sprinted around right end far out of the reach of McGill's secondary defense. Carroll made a good effort to nail Snyder with a flying tackle but the husky Toronto half-back had gotten up too much speed and "Dink" was thrown off, though the impact made the runner trip and fall over the goal line. Snyder's run was from the 37-yard line. Duncan failed to convert from a difficult angle.

Toronto, 11; McGill, 5.

Ambridge's kick-off was caught by Hobbs on his 16-yard line, and advanced 10 yards. McGregor was sent off for interference and McGill penalized 15 yards. Duncan was spilled on the line of scrimmage by Robertson, but was hurled 5 yards through the air after the tackle. Hobbs snared 8 yards through Gamble, for a first down on the Varsity 51-yard line. Duncan plunged at McGill left for 3 yards and Hobbs lost one when he fumbled and recovered. Somerville kicked to Little on his 23-yard mark. Crain failed to pass on an attempt to skirt right end and was thrown without a gain. Carroll punted to the Varsity 50-yard line. Duncan passed the ball to Hobbs, who was downed by Cope and Fife without gain. A trick play failed to gain at centre and Duncan bucked through for 6 yards. On the third down Somerville punted to Little, who received on his 15-yard line and advanced one chalk mark. Cope made 2 yards at right middle and when Woodruff ran into a pile of men at centre he dropped the ball and Varsity recovered on the McGill 24-yard line. A threatening end run was broken up when Robertson spilled Duncan with a pretty tackle. The play, however, brought the ball out in front of the goal posts and Somerville standing on his 32-yard line sent a perfect drop kick sailing between the uprights for 3 points.

Toronto, 14; McGill, 5.

Ambridge kicked off from the 40-yard line, Somerville receiving the pigskin on his 25-yard line, advanced 10 and returned the boot a distance of 52 yards to Little, who made a pretty catch on his 25-yard line, and surrounded by three the goal line. Snyder's run was from the 37-yard line. Duncan failed to convert from a difficult angle.

all sincere students, the speaker urged, to work hard at the acquirement of an international view-point, and to make the best possible use of all the facilities offered by the university courses to understand something of the present momentous international issues.

ARTS-LAW & MEDS. TO CLASH TO-DAY

Third Game in Inter-faculty Rugby

In the third game of the season the Med. Rugby team will clash with the Arts-Law aggregation today on the Campus at four o'clock. This game will be one of the most interesting played this year. Both teams have many supporters so a large turn out of rooters is expected.

The Arts-Law team has already defeated the Commerce squad and showed considerable speed and cleverness in their plays. With such worthies as Puddicombe, Myers, Bell, Falconer and Martineau, they feel confident of a victorious victory.

The Meds. have not played a game up to date but in their practices they have shown up well. Their line has many heavyweights which will be stone-wall to the Arts-Law plungers. The backs have had much experience and are sure men.

It can be assured that a terrific battle will be waged and an exciting finish is expected.

NOTICE.

There will be a special practice for the Water Polo teams, at the Rubenstein Bath at 5:15 o'clock. All out.

INDOOR BASEBALL.

All men taking part in games or practices in the High School Gym must wear running shoes, otherwise they will not be allowed on the floor.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT WEEKLY SING

Reading Room of Hall Scene of Enjoyable Gathering

The sing at the Hall last night was another success in the manner in which the hymns were rendered was any criterion of the feelings of the large crowd which was present.

The girls from the R.V.C. were out in large numbers and the freshmen were very much in evidence. Acquaintances formed at the Conversat on Friday and last week's sing were renewed and between sings the buzz of conversation was only broken by those calling out their favorite hymns.

The sings are given every Sunday evening in Strathcona Hall and begin about half-past eight. They are given for the purpose of helping the student spend what would otherwise be a dull evening, and they offer one of few opportunities that the freshmen and others have of meeting the girls from the Sherbrooke street building.

Refreshments of cake and coffee are usually served whenever the zeal of the singers is seen to wane, in which is never more than once during the evening for the hymns seem to have a fascination when sung in groups such as these that they do not always possess.

And if you want to criticize
The jace faults of a funny guy,
Just place a mirror on your wall
And watch yourself walk by.
